MANY DEMOCRATIC LEADERS AT FUNCTION

Senators Underwood and Pomerene, Who Favor
Ratification of Pact, Con-

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Considerable significance is being attached here to the fact that Senator Hitchcock's speech in the Senate yesterday against the four-power Pacific pact followed a dinner given the night before to a number of Democratic leaders by Joseph P. Tumulty, who was secretary to President Wilson, in honor of former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, the Democratic nominee for the presidency at the last election.

Cox was passing through Washington on his way South for a vacation. From persons present at the dinner, it has been learned that much of the discussion, which was informal, turned on the pending treaties. No material opposition was expressed to the naval limitation treaty, the submarine and poison-gas treaty or the pacts relating to China, but a large proportion of the diners is said to have found fault with the four-power treaty, on the theory that it sought to set up an alliance contrary to the principle of the League of Nations.

View Attributed to Cox.

This view is said to have been taken by former Gov. Cox. There was a great deal of talk about reservations and Cox is quoted as having favored some provision that would definitely safeguard this country against having to go to war at the expense of other powers. Cox is said to have viewed the treaty in its present form, as the foundation for a military alliance. In contrast with the League of Nations, which is designed to bring all the nations into an association for peace.

No effort was made by the conference. It was said, to draw up a resolution on which Democratic Senators opposed to the treaty in its present form might unite.

Issues of the coming congressional campaign were discussed at length. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that three outstanding points should be stressed by the party: the failure of the Senate to ratify lower taxes; the high-tariff obstruction to international trade, which that party purposes to erect; and the refusal of the Republicans to co-operate in bringing about a European settlement that would lead to a world trade revival. Cox made no announcement of his political intentions further than to say that he would be glad to give his services as a stump speaker in the campaign.

Two Conspicuous Absentees.

Conspicuous absentees from the dinner were Senator Underwood of Alabama, who was a member of the American delegation to the arms conference, and Senator Pomerene of Ohio. Both these Senators are working for ratification of the four-power pact.

Among the guests were: A. Mitchell Palmer, former Attorney-General and a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination against Cox; Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Senator Pittman of Nevada; Senator Robinson of Arkansas; Representative Garrett of Tennessee, acting Democratic leader in the House; Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee; Judge W. F. Connally of Michigan; former Gov. Joseph W. Folk of Missouri; C. C. Collier of Virginia, who managed Palmer's presidential campaign; Frank P. Garvan, former Alien Property Custodian; Daniel C. Roper, former Commissioner of Internal Revenue; and William G. McAdoo, the chief booster of Woodrow Wilson's campaign.

BUILDERS TO MAKE PAY SCALE APRIL 1, IF NECESSARY

Contractor Says Activity Can't Be Delayed, While Action Looking to Wage Cut Is Awaited.

CITIZENS COMMITTEE WAS TO BE NAMED

Union Organization's Secretary Declares Workers View Situation as Lock-out; Prepared to Fight.

While waiting for the formation of a citizens committee, which was suggested a month ago at a meeting of representatives of building and construction unions to support a movement for lower wages in the building trades, the Master Builders' Association is planning to announce its own scale of wages to the various unions on April 1, in the event that the proposed citizens' committee does not bring relief from the prevailing basic wage scale of $1.25 an hour.

The open season for building is upon us," said an official of one of the largest contracting companies in St. Louis, "and if we are to have a building program, now is the time to start. Delay is costly, particularly at this time of year, and unless the proposed committee acts shortly we builders shall be compelled to tell the unions what the scale of wages shall be beginning April 1. We do not want to undertake this fight alone, and the problem is one affecting every citizen of St. Louis."

Chairman to Be Announced.

Louis J. Brooks, chairman of a temporary committee, appointed Feb. 2 at Hotel Statler, to form the proposed Citizens' Committee, said he had had about a dozen conferences with various groups of citizens in the last month, with a view to selecting a chairman for the proposed committee and that he expected to make an announcement in this connection within a few days. He said the committee had not been idle, but that its work had been retarded by the absence from the city of certain men to be consulted.

Maurice J. Cassidy, secretary of the Building Trades Council, the union organization, asserted today that men interested in the proposed Citizens' Committee had been urging prospective builders not to start work until wages came down, and that this sort of campaign was only another phase of open-shop propaganda.

Attitude of Union.

The unions have come to regard this situation as a lockout," said Cassidy, "and we are prepared to fight it. The man who goes about advising prospective builders to hold up their work is an enemy of labor and civic progress. I do not believe a citizens' committee would be effective, as open shop advocates who seek only to destroy trade unions, would cloud the real issue with all kinds of personal propaganda."

There is no question, building costs, and we can show that material prices and commissions on loans, not wages, are chiefly responsible for holding up building. Build now" should be the slogan in St. Louis." That is how other large cities are solving the problem. Give us employment and the situation will work itself out."

July investigating the affairs of the defunct Bank of Commerce and waive immunity.

Hephburn refused to consent to the request of Gov. Robertson that he be permitted to appear before the grand jury.

"No witness is going before that jury without my consent. I don't give it," he said. "He is the Governor. I am going to tell you, see, I found George Sherrill (Attorney-General) when you the other morning that no man is going to interfere with the County Attorney of this county," Hephburn added. "You haven't got the power to supersede me, Governor."

You know better than that, Jim. I have the power to supersede you," Gov. Robertson replied, who had sent a letter offering to waive immunity and testify.

After a long discussion the Governor suggested that all these present withdraw and permit him to confer with the County Attorney. Hephburn assented and the crowd which had gathered in the office and outside the door withdrew. Among those present was Gordon Clark, foreman of the Superior Court grand jury, which was dismissed by Judge Christopher.

Gov. Robertson indicated during the interview that he had no desire to arbitrarily supersede Mr. Hephburn or the judge of the grand jury.

The system of handling this fund was the same as that under previous administrations, and it was never balanced monthly.

Confounded With Hollenbeck.

Hollenbeck informed me last Tuesday evening, in a conference at the Planters Hotel that this system would be changed at once and stated that since he had personally made an exhaustive investigation of the life and habits of Freeman and found the same to have been exemplary, and that since his own investigation of the books revealed that they had been carefully kept, he was satisfied as to Freeman's innocence.

Freeman, speaking for himself, as he had been unpopular with the prison officials because of his humanitarian motives in dealing with the convicts. He said a proposal of his that had been forwarded upon by the officials was a refusal to accompany convicts from one prison to another while they were shackled.

Soldan School Heads, Answering Criticism, Say Girl Pupils Dress Simply

Standardized Costume for High School Young Women, Advocated by Club Woman, Said to Be Already Practically in Effect.

Replying to the criticism of the elaborate dress of high school girls and the recommendation of a standardized dress for them, made yesterday by Mrs. Norman Windsor of 1111 E. 11th Avenue, president of the Women's Chamber of Commerce, John Bush Powell, principal of Soldan High School, and Mrs. E. C. Bristol, dean of girls, declared high school girls dress in simple fashion and have almost standardized their own attire by tact custom.

The usual mode of dress, they said, consisted of wearing a serviceable knitted sweater over a waist, woolen sport skirt, leather belt, woolen hose and flat-heeled sport shoes. Variety is attained chiefly through color.

Principal Powell said: "I have heard that these parades have kept some girls, whose parents cannot afford fancy dresses, out of school to avoid humiliation.

I would suggest that the girls be required to wear Peter Thompson's one-piece blue serge affairs of white, white body blues and plaid blue serge skirts. Such a outfit for a season might cost about $15 and would be sufficiently attractive for any schoolgirl."

Mrs. Windsor has a son and daughter attending Soldan High and another son at Washington University.

Mr. Powell's Statement.

"I appreciate Mrs. Windsor's point in saying parents are to blame for any elaborateness of dress," Principal Powell said. "But there are very few girls at Soldan who do not wear simple clothing. I think I can speak for high school girls everywhere in that they have almost standardized their own attire. I think there has been a steady growth of sanity among girls in their dress recently.

The school is a reflection of the home-in-dress, refinement and social graces.

"Lack of home study is the prime cause of failures. Boys do not fail because they spend their time looking at girls. If parents would see to it that lessons are prepared at home there would be fewer girls who do not reflect at all upon the schools; it is the parents entirely who are to blame. I felt that there was a need to create a consciousness of this dressing competition among parents, and that the Women's Chamber of Commerce with its widespread representation was the organization to do it. It is time for all these women's organizations to clean their own doctored. Let the school, state and municipal conditions alone and look after their children."

"I know that the girls are dressing elaborately—for an elaborate—because many women have told me so, and by my own observation. I think the trouble, resting with parents, is largely due to modern ways of living. When I was a girl it was necessary to go to a graduation dress every time a boy went west. Nowadays the girl comes to the door with her coat on and says to the mother, 'Where are we going? That represents the right attitude in matters involving dress.'

Shocked by Nudge House.

"I have found a feeling among women in favor of standardizing dress for girls. One woman said that all girls in school should be placed on an equality of mentality rather than of display of clothing. Our high school girls are wearing short-skirted, flesh-colored stockings that I was shocked to find are called 'mule-hose,' not elaborate dresses. The school authorities are mistaken if they say this is not so."

I visited Soldan High just before the school opened and found

girls dressed in simple, sobering dresses and simple hairdos. The was the way there was little boasting in this regard, but this is not so. There has even been a tendency toward simplicity in graduation dresses. A class several years ago voted to wear Peter Thompson dresses at graduation and one of the girls, returning to address the next class said, "We voted for them, but we didn't like all looking alike."

"I don't think a standardized dress is necessary, but I wouldn't object to it. I don't think the mothers or their mothers would like it and the requirement would be hard to enforce. A different kind of style would serve. There are lots of girls at Soldan. The girls have time enough to go to class to change."

Superintendent of Instruction Maddy said he had no interest in a discussion of standardized dress, because he believes the problem of dress will be worked out of its own accord "in the long run." He said he would inquire to see if conditions are as Mrs. Windsor said.

Spencer's Statement.

"Spencer's statement issued yesterday was as follows:

"I cannot believe that Judge Kenyon has descended at the beginning of his judicial career to such repulsive vilification as he is reported to have used before the students at the State University, in his recent statement in which he is said to have declared that Senator Newberry is a traitor worse than Judas Iscariot."

Sen. Spencer said that the attack did not deserve to be called either by reservation or amendment and Senator France declared the treaty would bring America into a terrible war."

France apparently was referring to the speech of Senator Kenyon comparing Senator Newberry to Judas Iscariot. Both the Kenyon address and Senator Spencer's statements were printed in a Washington newspaper.

Chicago Auto Dealer, Who Shot Wife in Miami Hotel, Recovering From Self-InFLICTED STAB WOUNDS.

Ante-Mortem Statement to Be Withheld Until His Trial, State's Attorney Announces.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—After account of the shooting by her husband in their suite in the Flamingo Hotel here last Sunday noon, given by Mrs. Edgar C. Frady of Chicago to John C. Gramling, State's Attorney, and Fred W. Pine County Solicitor, will not be made public prior to the trial of Frady, who following the death at 1 p.m. yesterday of his wife, was formally charged with murder, the State's Attorney announced today. Mrs. Frady was a sister of John R. Thompson of Chicago, chain restaurant owner.

The people know this—that in the Democratic party came power in 1913 every Republican member and official was kicked and a good Democrat put in his place.

"The people know that No. Republican candidate for president or for Congress in 1912, and they don't understand why it is almost impossible for a Democrat out of an office to hold it simply because he is a Democrat."

It may be Mr. Hayes is responsible for this situation, in the mind of Republicans he is looked upon as the guilty party, and for that reason his retirement is universally popular and satisfactory.

Williams recited an original poem titled "The Burial of Sir Will," one verse of which reads:

"He part with him gladly, so young and bright;

"His going leaves not an ache nor a yearning;

"The rays of the movies' calcium light;

"He is welcome to all he is earning."

12-Hour Fight Told Off.

In her statement, according to the public prosecutor, Mrs. Frady charged her husband with having fired the shot which four days later proved fatal. The shooting came, she said, at the end of a 12-hour fight, during which she said, her husband held his wife names and pressed her of a gross misconduct with other men. It was "12 hours of hell," she told the attorney.

Mrs. Frady made her statement on the day following the shooting and it was taken down by an official court reporter and attested to by her, but was not signed by Mrs. Frady, who was partially paralyzed, one of the bullets having lodged in her spine.

Because of the statement being witnessed, the absence of a signature will not weaken the document when it is presented in court, Gramling stated.

JOCKEY ONCE SUED
FRADY ON CHARGE OF ALIENATION

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 3.—Dispatches from Miami, Fla., telling of the death there yesterday afternoon of Mrs. Edgar C. Frady, mean that her husband will have to stand trial for murder, in the event he survives his own injuries. His wife made a statement before her death that he had shot her three times in a struggle during a quarrel over possession of the pistol, and later declared another man in the room did the shooting. This, however, is denied by hotel employees and Mrs. Frady's woman companion.

Mr. Gramling also stated that Mrs. Frady said in her dying statement that her husband abused her from the time they returned from a dance about 1:30 in the morning until after the noon hour, when the shots were fired, often beating her with his fist and not allowing her to dress her clothing. In contradiction to this, however, a physician who was called immediately after the shooting said that Mrs. Frady's right arm was hanging in a closet and that she wore a kimono. It is impossible to keep from the defense materials facts in the hands of the State that the State's Attorney decided not to make Mrs. Frady's statement public.

Cooker's Inquiry.

A coroner's investigation of the Frady began this afternoon. A post-mortem examination showed that a bullet in the spine caused death.

After testifying at the inquest relatives will depart with the body for Chicago, where the funeral services will be held. Frady, who is a Chicago automobile dealer, will be moved from the hospital to the county jail as soon as his condition permits.

Elder Frady Jr., 16, son of the couple, arrived from Chicago last night. With Mrs. Frady at the time of her death were Mrs. Robert Swain, sister, and Harry Thompson, a brother, both of Chicago.

Frady came to Miami early in the winter. Frady, who was born on a nervous breakdown, departed from Chicago in the middle of the annual automobile show. It is understood he went to Cuba and then to Miami about three weeks ago. It is said he and his wife quarreled frequently.

Frady Sued Before Shooting.

On the night of the shooting, the couple, Mrs. Higgins had been together. Mr. and Mrs. Frady occupied separate apartments, but insisted on her coming to his apartment, as he desired to talk over their differences.

Miss Higgins, fearful of what might happen in his condition, tried to call Mrs. Frady over the telephone. Frady answered this call and immediately renewed his accusation against her.

For many years, Frady has been a member of the Indianapolis Motor Club. He had assumed considerable money and his connection with the Thompson family brought him much business.

Early in the winter Mrs. Frady accompanied by a woman friend, went to Florida for the winter, staying at the Flamingo Hotel, where she maintained elaborate apartments.

IRISH PRISON BOARD CHAIRMAN SHOT TO DEATH IN DUBLIN

Max S. Green, Victim, Was Son-in-Law of the Late John Redmond, Nationalist Leader.

WOMEN TO VOTE ON NEW CONSTITUTION

Injection of Question, Opposed by Neither Side, in Dail Deliberations Regarded as Trick by Griffith

By the Associated Press
BELFAST, March 2.—Max S. Green, chairman of the Irish Prison Board, was shot and killed in Dublin today. A Dublin message announced. He was a son-in-law of the late John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader.

The shooting of Green occurred during a clash following a robbery.

An official of the Ministry of Pensions carrying a considerable sum of money was held up by armed men who took from him a bag containing about $2000 and ran away with it. The police gave chase and captured the robber who had the money in his possession.

Another of the fleeing men fired on his pursuers, and it was then that Green was struck by a bullet and killed. Another man was wounded at the same time.

Equal Suffrage Motion Characterized as Trick by Arthur Griffith.

By the Associated Press

DUBLIN, March 3.—An effectual attempt of the opponents of the Anglo-Irish treaty to secure a decree enfranchising women to vote at the forthcoming elections developed much more strongly than the frontiers of political parties in the session of the Dail Eireann yesterday, but the discussion showed that the supporters of the Free State, equally with the Republicans, were unanimously in favor of equal suffrage, and Arthur Griffith, President of the Dail, said he was willing to incorporate the principle in the Free State Constitution. Mr. Griffith characterized the motion as a trick to impede the elections.

Amendment of Irish Treaty Relating to Ulster Discussed in Commons.

By the Associated Press

LONDON, March 3.—When debate was resumed on the Irish Bill in committee stage in the House of Commons today, discussion of Lord Hugh Cecil's amendment was continued. This declares that in approving article 12 of the Anglo-Irish treaty, relating to the Ulster boundary, the British Government did not intend to agree to transfer the main area of any of the six counties of Northern Ireland to the territory of the Irish Free State, but agreed only to minor boundary adjustments.

Ronald McNeill, Unionist member for the Canterbury Division of Kent, said this was the central point of objection to the measure presented in question, as represented by many of the members of a branch of southward Northern Ireland on the north of the Government. He quoted McNeill as having said the Irish provisional government, as having said Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, had been tricked by his own friends.

WOMEN FIGHT DETECTIVE AND DEPARTMENT STORE MANAGER

Those Who Refuse to Leave Place Held in Elevator Until Police Arrive.

These women, known to the police, assaulted the bodies detective and manager of the Sonnenfeld Millinery Co., 419 Washington Avenue, at noon today when they refused to leave the store. The police say there is a standing order for these women to keep out of this and other stores.

Mrs. Lulu Vincent, house detective, saw the women on the third floor and asked them to leave. One of the women knocked Mrs. Vincent down and, with another, pummeled her. When W. H. Jenkins, manager, came to the rescue, all three attacked him. Employees stopped them. Jenkins detained them in an elevator between floors while policemen were called. The women were locked up at 19th Headquarters, charged with assault and battery and held for the police department. They said they had come to the store to buy a dress, but they had less than $4 between them.

MASKED MAN SHOOTS CHORISTER

Under Church During Practice, Fires and Escapes.

By the Associated Press
PORTLAND, Ore., March 2.—Mrs. William Fuller, 17, a member of St. Stephen's Pro-Cathedral choir, was shot and seriously wounded last night at the church by a masked man who entered while the choir was practicing, ordered its members to put their hands up and threatened without waiting for them to do it. The man escaped.

GAVE WIFE'S DETECTIVES AID IN DIVORCE CASE

Husband Advanced Information That Resulted in Decree for Daughter of R. J. Wynne.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 3.—Entry in the Supreme Court of a Interlocutory decree of divorce in favor of Mrs. Alphonse Francis Smith has disclosed the wreck of an international romance.

Mrs. Smith is the daughter of Robert J. Wynne, Postmaster-General under President Roosevelt and later Counsel General at London.

Alphonse Francis Austin Smith is the son of Frank Austin Smith, wealthy resident of Toronto. At the time of his marriage to Miss Ruth Wynne in London in October, 1912, he was a Lieutenant in the Fourth Dragoon Guards and had a yearly income estimated at $75,000.

Names "Girl of Good Family."

After a honeymoon at his country place at Wendover, he and his wife took a house in London. They separated a year later. A reconciliation was effected in 1915, largely through the instrumentalities of Smith's mother, who was not lasting and in 1918 he assigned one-third of his income to his wife. She filed for action for divorce in June, 1921, naming Miss Gertrude Lawrence, whom she describes as "an English girl of 29 and of good family."

It was testified at the trial before Supreme Court Justice Lehman that Smith and Miss Lawrence "had lived together in London from the fall of 1918 till the summer of 1920, and that April 15, 1920, a daughter was born to Miss Lawrence."

Sends Letter to Detectives.

Mr. Smith did not resist his wife's action, but assisted it, as the following letter written by him April 29, 1921, to her detectives and made a part of the record:

"I think it might assist you in your inquiry that you are making and save a lot of trouble if you inquire at the Hans Crescent Hotel, London, where I stopped with a lady as Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence in June or July, 1920, and also at the Anchor Hotel, Shropshire, where I stayed for about a month in my own name and with a lady who passed as my wife, the same lady as above."

ARTIFICIAL HAIR ABOUT ONLY ARTICLE RUSSIA HAS IN PLENTY

Markets Lack Every Sort of Manufactured Goods and Loss of Collar Buttons Is a Tragedy.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Feb. 5.—Russian markets lack nearly every sort of manufactured article the world can afford, unless it be artificial hair, perfumes and toilet articles. The beauty parlors seem to have adequate supplies and are doing a thriving business.

The man who loses a collar button in Moscow is ruined. It is a tragedy when collars and shirts wear out. The odds and ends in the shops are chiefly the sizes for very small boys and giants. The neckties are patterns which German dealers couldn't sell at home.

Shopkeepers put everything attractive they have in their windows. Inquiry within always demonstrates that they have no stock in regular sizes.

Government taxes on merchants are mounting daily and the merchants pile the tax on their prices. Small notion shops on side streets in Moscow are charged 60,000,000 paper rubles a year for their licenses, which at the Government rate is 600 gold rubles, or about $300.

FRIDAY,
MARCH 3, 1922.BURGLARS TAKE COATS OF THREE POLICEMEN

Garments Stolen From Tailor Shop Where They Had Been Left to Be Pressed.

Burglars last night broke into the tailor shop of Arthur Knott, 1113 Angelcroft street, and stole three policemen's coats and other clothes, valued at $30. The coats belonged to Joseph Martain and John Sanders, patrons of the North Market Street Station, and the police patrol officer, at 8th and Locust streets. The burglar set fire to the clothes to be stolen and escaped.

In the absence of Frank Pollio, 20 Victor street, burglar paid $10 and two tickets for the Police Relief Association benefit held this year and $120 from a cigar case.

When Mrs. Anna Morgan, 1221 South Seventh street, returned home last evening she found three bare rooms, the furniture having been removed. Neighbors gave the name of a moving company, which reported it had been employed by a woman to remove the furniture to 1307 St. Louis. This woman left the house. A big negro, said to be a rock-church and Baptist minister, was seen outside the grocery store. Mrs. Louise Bernard, who she remained at her home, 407 South Fifteenth street, at 6 p.m. yesterday. He drew a revolver as she entered, and she ran for a policeman. When Mrs. Bernard and the other returned, the negro had disappeared. The house had been ransacked, but nothing taken.

QUAIL CLASSED AS SONGBIRDS

Society Wants Shooting of Them Prohibited Immediately.

By the Associated Press
ST. PAUL, Minn., March 3.—Quail are songbirds according to the Executive Committee of the State Humane Society. Maintaining that they are also allies of farmers, resolutions adopted by the committee urge that all farmers of the states they inhabit be asked to feed and care for them. It is asserted that the work and the small amount of grain thus expended would be abundantly repaid in the destruction of insect pests and the seeds of noxious weeds.

The resolution also proposes that quail shooting be prohibited indefinitely. Without such protection the birds are in danger of extermination, says Sam E. Fullerton, executive agent of the society. The society wants quail shooting stopped for a generation at least, he adds.

PARIS EDITOR, 64, NO LONGER EVEN AMUSED BY DUEL CHALLENGES

Predecessor as Chief of The Figaro Fails to Answer Seconds of Older Man's Assistant.

By the Associated Press
PARIS, March 8.—All Paris is awaiting the outcome of an effort by Louis Lazarus, retiring editor-in-chief of the Figaro, to obtain satisfaction from the new editors of the newspaper for their initial editorial, to which he took offense.

M. Lazarus first challenged Alfred Capus, but the latter, who is 64 years old, told Lazarus' seconds he had long ceased to be even amused by such challenges and that, anyway, it was only natural that the younger man should be challenged when two very recently involved referred to Marquis de Lévis, 50, his co-editor.

Later, when the Marquis heard of the incident, he promptly sent his seconds to M. Lazarus, who has not yet replied, as far as known. Both M. Capus and the Marquis de Flers are members of the French Academy, and the former is well known as a dramatist.

The Figaro, an influential morning newspaper, was taken over on Feb. 28 by M. Coty, a perfume manufacturer, and a group of associates.

When the purchase was first announced, M. Lazarus attacked the new proprietor in bitter terms, and declared him to be a radical革新者, belonging to the party of which Calliau was formerly the acknowledged chief." At the same time Edouard Calmette, son of the former director, Gaston Calmette, who was shot dead by Mme. Calliau, announced his resignation as general secretary of the Figaro.

BUDAPEST, March 8.—The Hungarian Government will soon have several thousand acres of land to sell and contemplates setting up a bureau in America where Hungarians will be able to purchase farms before settling home. This land was given to the Government to pay for taxes on other properties.

Joseph Szalay, who was sent to the United States recently to study the situation, says that his countrymen in America number about 500,000; that their savings average about $400 to $500 each, and that many of them would like to return to Hungary if they were able to buy land here.

The Figaro, an influential morning newspaper, was taken over on Feb. 28 by M. Coty, a perfume manufacturer, and a group of associates.

When the purchase was first announced, M. Lazarus attacked the new proprietor in bitter terms, and declared him to be a radical革新者, belonging to the party of which Calliau was formerly the acknowledged chief." At the same time Edouard Calmette, son of the former director, Gaston Calmette, who was shot dead by Mme. Calliau, announced his resignation as general secretary of the Figaro.

BUDAPEST, March 8.—The Hungarian Government will soon have several thousand acres of land to sell and contemplates setting up a bureau in America where Hungarians will be able to purchase farms before settling home. This land was given to the Government to pay for taxes on other properties.

Joseph Szalay, who was sent to the United States recently to study the situation, says that his countrymen in America number about 500,000; that their savings average about $400 to $500 each, and that many of them would like to return to Hungary if they were able to buy land here.

PARIS EDITOR, 64, NO LONGER EVEN AMUSED BY DUEL CHALLENGES

Predecessor as Chief of The Figaro Fails to Answer Seconds of Older Man's Assistant.

By the Associated Press
PARIS, March 8.—All Paris is awaiting the outcome of an effort by Louis Lazarus, retiring editor-in-chief of the Figaro, to obtain satisfaction from the new editors of the newspaper for their initial editorial, to which he took offense.

M. Lazarus first challenged Alfred Capus, but the latter, who is 64 years old, told Lazarus' seconds he had long ceased to be even amused by such challenges and that, anyway, it was only natural that the younger man should be challenged when two very recently involved referred to Marquis de Lévis, 50, his co-editor.

Later, when the Marquis heard of the incident, he promptly sent his seconds to M. Lazarus, who has not yet replied, as far as known. Both M. Capus and the Marquis de Flers are members of the French Academy, and the former is well known as a dramatist.

CONCERT FOR NEGRO CHILDREN TOMORROW

Post-Dispatch Gift Program by Symphony Orchestra Will Be Heard at Odeon.

IS HEAD STUFFED BY CATARRH? USE A HEALING CREAM

The fourth Post-Dispatch free concert by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will be given tomorrow for negro children at the Odeon. It will begin at 10:30 a. m., but the doors will be open an hour earlier.

Two selections from the works of Coleridge-Taylor, greatest of all negro composers, are included in the program. These numbers are "A Sonnet of Love," and "A Sprightly Tarantelle." Other numbers are "Rakoczy March" from "The Damnation of Faust," Brahms' "No. 5 in G Minor" and No. 6 in D Minor, a violoncello solo, Saint-Saens' "The Swan" by Max Steinbeck, "In the Hall of the Mountain King" and Victor Herbert's "American Fantasy." Coleridge-Taylor, who died in 1912, leaving a small body of work, was the son of an English woman and a negro physician of Sierra Leone, Africa. He was born in London and lived there all his life.

The three previous concerts have been given at the Missouri Theater for white children, and have been attended by an average of about 3,000 children at each performance. They were announced as the Christmas gift of the Post-Dispatch to the children of the public and parochial grade and high schools. There will be one other concert.

GOVERNMENT TOWBOAT AGROUND ON SANDBAR SINCE WEDNESDAY

The Minnesota Is Not Expected to Be Free Until River Rises—Trouble Due to Striking Intake Tower.

The Minnesota, a government towboat which Wednesday afternoon was thrown by the wind and current against the new intake tower at Chain of Rocks as it was being brought together with another towboat and two barges from Alton, sloughed by its sister boat the Illinois, was still on the sandbar near the Baden Rowing Club this morning. It went aground after the impact of the collision broke the cables holding it to the rest of the fleet.

The boats were coming down the river on the east side of the tower, the Minnesota being nearest the tower. Part of the boat's steel hull was caved in when it struck, but its air tight compartments kept it from sinking. Torn loose from the fleet, the Minnesota, which was without steam and had no one on board, was swept between the men and oil intake towers and down the river.

Major de Witt C. Jones, in charge of Government boats between the Missouri and Ohio rivers and the captain of the Illinois, which alone was under power, gave chase with the rest of the fleet. The Minnesota grounded on a sandbar about a mile below before it could be overtaken. Efforts to get it off were unsuccessful.

Yesterday morning the boat was worked loose, but being out of the channel again went aground. Major Jones this morning said he hardly expected the boat to be freed until the river rises.

JURY IN "DRY" CASE DISAGREES

A jury in the Federal Court yesterday failed to agree in the case of Leo Lasky, 1494 Cass Avenue, and Frank Simon, 1430 South Seventh street, prosecuted for an alleged violation of the Volstead act, and was discharged by Judge Paris after 75 minutes deliberation.

The men, who will be tried again, were indicted jointly with Kaspar Harris, 1341 South Broadway, at whose home a still was found by the police on Nov. 4, last, after Harris' wife had complained to them of the operation of the premises. Harris was arrested at the time of the raid and the two others were arrested later.

Harris and his wife, as Government witnesses, testified the room in which the still was operated had been rented to Simon. They knew nothing of the operation of the still, they said, and discovered its presence in the house through the odor of the mash.

ROBBER CHIEF PROTECTS WOMEN VICTIMS FROM HIS FOLLOWERS

Quells Two During 24-Hour Orgy and Looting of Wealthy Californian's Home—9 Arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Through an arrest early today police believe they will trace the nine members of a gang of robbers who looted the home of Frederick W. McNear, a wealthy man, bound and gagged Julien Hart, residing there, his guests and all the servants, and after a 24-hour drinking orgy, departed in six automobiles with their loot.

Adrien Goursolle, a waiter, was taken into custody after officers say they found one of the automobiles in front of his home and 69 bottles of wine in his cellar. The robbers went to the home at Menlo Park late Wednesday night, bound the servants and all members of the household and proceeded to loot the place in systematic fashion. A concrete vault holding the liquor, valued at $25,000, was drilled open.

During the night the bandits fought among themselves, their leader knocking two of them out because they threatened women members of the household, including Miss Mary Conway, former matrrix and Stanford University student. It was not until late yesterday that members of the household succeeded in freeing themselves and giving the alarm. Silverware and rug valued at many thousands of dollars were taken in addition to the wines and whisky.

MAN THAT CUT PICTURE OF HARDING BLAMES BOOTLEGGER

Charged with mutilating a picture of President Harding and creating a disturbance at a dance of the Gravois Farmers' Club, about two miles west of St. Louis, on the Gravois road, Benjamin Pope, 28, was arrested last night at his home, 4204 Welch street.

A. Detjen, president of the club, who swore out a warrant, says Pope on Feb. 11 attended a club dance, with several friends, as a guest of one of the members, and late in the evening mounted a chair and, with a knife, cut the eyes out of a picture of the President hanging on the wall and wrote unprintable remarks beneath.

Detjen says that when he protested the friends of Pope interfered and Detjen, trying to do justice in the fight, then followed, attacked Pope and his companion, had been taken from the building. Efforts were made to establish his identity, but only lately was it determined.

Pope today said that "it was all that bootlegger's fault." He said he received a drink from a man he did not know, late in the evening, went outside and had two drinks of "powerful moonshine." What happened afterward is hazy, but he remembers being on the chair. "I'm an independent in politics, and think President Harding one of the greatest men in the world," he said.

MAN SENTENCED FOR FORGERY

Laborer Gets Two Years on Each of Two Charges.

Ernest Fleshman, 40 years old, a concrete laborer, of 4214 Lee avenue, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court today to two charges of forgery in the second degree and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on each charge by Judge Killoren. Fleshman admitted cashing two checks, one for $19.20 and the other for $12.60, drawn on the West St. Louis Trust Co. and signed by him with names other than his own. He admitted that he had served a two-year term for a burglary in Franklin County.

John Nicholson, 32, a negro, who said he was from Tallahassee, Fla., pleaded guilty on four charges of burglary and Judge Killoren sentenced him to two years in the penitentiary on each charge. A fifth charge was dismissed.

CASE AGAINST SHEA DROPPED

Charge of W. J. Reilly That He Was Robbed Is Not Proved.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Howland Johnston yesterday in Jefferson presided over the case against Thomas Shea, 21 years old, of 1025 Chestnut street, charged with robbing William J. Reilly, proprietor of a soft drink parlor at 2622 Cherokee, of $100 on March 7, 1921, because Johnston said he was convinced Reilly's testimony would not be strong enough to bring a conviction.

Reilly, who did not report the alleged robbery until some time afterward, charged that Shea and a companion had forced him into an automobile as he was leaving the Night and Day Bank on Olive street took the money from him by pretending they were armed and then let him out of the car at Eighth and Locust streets.

REGULATION OF DANCING PROBLEM FOR OFFICIALS

Cunliff Thinks Little Can Be Done Until "Immoral Manners" Are Defined by Law.

Doubt of legal authority and lack of agents prevent more rigid enforcement of the ordinance, which became effective last year, regulating public dancing and dance halls, officials said today in reply to criticism made at a meeting yesterday of the Washington City Council of Commerce, which appointed a committee to confer with Director of Public Welfare Cunliff on the subject.

Director Cunliff, under whose department dance hall regulation comes, said that the ordinance puts actual enforcement up to the police. He doubts that much can be done to regulate dancing until "immoral manners" are defined by law. He said the City Counselor had informed him that officials cannot set up a standard of position in dancing or make other arbitrary provisions. Dancing teachers have suggested furnishing diagrams of proper style of dancing, but the Counselor said that would not do.

"I don't feel that I am competent to say in court what dancing is immoral and what is not," Chief of Police O'Brien said. "I don't know one dance from another and I don't know any dancing authorities among my men. I don't think we would have the right anyway. There aren't enough policemen to post at all public dance halls." Director Cunliff notifies us when he has issued a license for a public dance and the policeman on the beat is instructed to keep his eye on it and to see that it closes at the proper time, 1 a. m. The patrolmen also watch all dance halls."

Director Cunliff said the police had only reported one dance hall proprietor to him for allowing improper conditions. He dismissed her with a warning.

Ligon, 45, of 4407 Washington boulevard, was seriously injured yesterday when crushed between a truck driven by Daniel Brokmann of 4900 Delmar boulevard and an automobile parked at the curb in front of 3839 Washington boulevard. Ligon was riding with Brokmann, when the latter swerved the truck sharply to avoid another automobile, Ligon losing his balance and falling from the seat between the truck and the parked car.

Charles Kramer, 45, of 2328A Madison street, suffered scalp wounds and cuts and bruises when knocked down by an automobile driven by Edward Bauer, 58, of 2827 Winnebago street, a grocer, at Jefferson and Chouteau avenues. Bauer, after knocking Kramer down, collided with truck being driven south on Jefferson avenue.

Francis Dean, 5, son of Mrs. James Stevens, 803 North Taylor avenue, suffered cuts and bruises when he ran into an automobile driven by Miss Silla Ryan of 6181 Maple avenue, Taylor and Washington boulevards.

Luke Kavavick, 45, of 610 South Vandeventer avenue, was cut and bruised when knocked down by an automobile driven by Fred W. Kinalch of 613 South Vandeventer avenue in front of his home.

TOO MUCH MUSIC FOR HOOVER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Secretary Hoover objects to too much talking machine music over the radio telephone. He has a receiving radio rigged up at his home, but said today most of what he received is the music which he can get at home without the wireless; lectures on public health and talks on what one ought to eat.

The Anacostia station, according to Hoover, is of such strength that it drown out everything else around Washington, where it starts. Hoover announced that the three committees of the wireless telephone conference are at work and that a priority plan will have to be arranged. Control must be exercised over the time of day for different measures or programs and over the day wave length. Hoover indicated that the Department of Commerce will have to ask for an extension of the existing powers over wireless. The present situation, he said, is complete chaos. The committees will hold no further hearings.

RESOLUTION IN HOUSE ASKS FOR INQUIRY INTO OFFICIAL CONDUCT OF E. MONT REILY

Representative Humphreys of Mississippi Calls Attention to Charges of Porto Rican Commissioner.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
29 Wyatt Building.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Following the speech in the House yesterday by Felix Cordova-Vale, resident commissioner of Porto Rico, denouncing the official conduct of E. Mont Rely as Governor of the island, a resolution was introduced today by Representative Humphreys, Democrat of Mississippi, demanding an investigation of the charges.

The resolution proposed that the Committee on Foreign Affairs be directed to inquire into Rely's official conduct and report its recommendations to the House as speedily as possible. The committee would be empowered to take testimony either in Washington or elsewhere, during sessions of the House, or when it is in recess. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules.

In the preamble, it is stated that the Senate of Porto Rico, at the session which has just adjourned, refused to confirm nominations submitted by the Governor and that Rely reappointed the same persons, in defiance and disregard of the organic act under which Porto Rico is governed. It is also set forth that the Senate of Porto Rico has requested a congressional investigation.

At a congressional hearing, 16 charges in resolution.

Sixteen specific charges against Rely are made in the resolution. These are as follows:

That Rely has ousted officials of long experience without cause and filled their places with incompetent persons.

That he has unlawfully tried to intimidate officials to compel them to submit to his dictation.

That he has threatened to have the Washington Government annul the organic act unless the Porto Rican Senate confirmed his nominees.

That he has "attempted to poison the minds and prejudice the public opinion of the people of the United States" by branding the people of Porto Rico as "slaves."

That he has in public assemblies behaved himself in a manner unbecoming a gentleman and official.

That he has taken as his friends and counselors men of "noteworthy evil purposes."

That he had announced publicly that he intended "to make $200,000 during his four-year term of office" whereas the salary of the Governor is but $10,000 a year.

That he has unlawfully interfered with the courts and attempted to bring them into disrepute.

Removal of Judge.

That he unlawfully removed a judge because he refused to give the governor the reasons on which he based a decision in a criminal proceeding.

That he unlawfully removed the Judge, Clerk and Marshal of a court because they went with many others to the pier to welcome the president of the Porto Rican Senate on his return from the United States.

That he summoned a judge to his office and threatened him with removal because the judge had issued an injunction restraining the issuance of municipal bonds by the City of Managua, which action by the Court, the Governor alleged, had caused the defeat of some of his friends in the municipal election which followed.

The House was thrown into tumult yesterday as Davila, resident commissioner of Porto Rico, and Representative Tinchier of Kansas, Republican, stood in the "well" of the House and shouted charges and counter charges relating to the administration of Rely.

HARDING TO STAY OUT OF SENATE FIGHT IN INDIANA

President Tells Publisher of String of Papers in State He Will Not Take Sides Either Way.

NEW AND BEVERIDGE IN THE CONTEST

Attitude of Executive Taken to Indicate That He Will Take No Part in Any Primaries.

By DAVID LAWRENCE,
A Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—President Harding and John C. Shaffer, publisher of a string of newspapers three of which are in Indiana, have reached an understanding about the political contest between Senator Harry New and former Senator Beveridge of Indiana, which throws an interesting light on what the presidential attitude will be toward Republican primaries throughout the nation this year.

Shaffer came to the White House merely to pay his respects, but inevitably the conversation turned to Indiana politics. The President is a warm friend of Senator New, who is seeking renomination and in his heart hopes New will win. Shaffer is a friend of both Senator New and Senator Beveridge, but believes the interests of Indiana and the nation would be served best if even if it were correct, Rely ought to be investigated.

Tinchier replied that he hoped there would be an investigation and added, "I wouldn't mind a trip to Porto Rico myself."

Representative Nolan of California remarked that when Mont Rely recently returned to Porto Rico he got "a tremendous reception at the hands of the common people there." At 1 o'clock in the morning, Tinchier said he had been informed that Mont Rely represented 50 per cent of the population of Porto Rico in his clean up of the island.

"Mont Rely" he shouted, "has been charged with raising the American flag over the schools of Porto Rico."

That he has in public speeches denounced as traitors Porto Ricans of high character and characterized the flag of Porto Rico as "dirty."

That in public assemblies he has behaved himself in a manner unbecoming a gentleman and official.

That he has taken as his friends and counselors men of "noteworthy evil purposes."

That he had announced publicly that he intended "to make $200,000 during his four-year term of office" whereas the salary of the Governor is but $10,000 a year.

The House was thrown into tumult yesterday as Davila, resident commissioner of Porto Rico, and Representative Tinchier of Kansas, Republican, stood in the "well" of the House and shouted charges and counter charges relating to the administration of Rely.

"I told President Harding," said Shaffer, "that in my judgment former Senator Beveridge would win the primary without question.

The question of what a President should do in the primary contests between members of his own party always a ticklish one to decide. President Wilson, for instance, between Democratic candidates in Alabama and Georgia at the cost of bitter criticism inside his own party.

Many Presidents have helped their party to renomination through the machinations of party politicos that were not visible to the naked eye.

Shaffer, not to be outdone, and insisting that the fight was on a high plane of intellectual values to the State and the nation of two contending candidates promised that if New were renominated he would give him his hearty support in the campaign for election.

That's what Christ and St. Paul were agreed on. The great thing about Paul is that he was an eminent man. And the parables of the Bible, for example, after all are true.

Christianity, God's energy should be given out by everyone no matter who he may be in all social relationships. And that means for everyone happiness.

It is in the old days when Senators were elected by State Legislatures that was easy to manage, but it is not so simple when the presidential influence has to be proclaimed to enough party followers to be effective.

That's the reason of the situation now because they want New renominated and willing to stand their ground. In other words Mr. Harding promised his full support to Beveridge if the latter is nominated.

Representative Fess, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, declared in a speech in the House yesterday, reviewing the achievements of the first year of President Harding's administration. Of the result, he added, "there can be no doubt."

"One year ago," Fess declared, "President Harding found the nation with her relations with many foreign countries strained to almost the breaking point, her fundamental principles under discussion, her honor in question, her hope for success with the profits of war and wild extravagance, her industries inflated and problems of reconstruction complicated and imminent."

The rehabilitated structure is two miles in length, constructed of reinforced concrete, 100 feet and connects Galveston Island with the mainland. On the causeway is a roadway for vehicle traffic and double rail lines for steam trains and one interurban track.

Novelist Churchill Tells Result of His Journeys Into World of the Spirit

Has Been Trying for Three Years, Without Producing a Novel, to Reach Theory of Need of Creative Life.

WINSTON CHURCHILL

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Winston Churchill, the novelist, has not written a novel for three years. Instead, he has been making journeys into the world of the spirit. He has been keeping them a secret until now. Today he will tell something about them to an audience in the parlors of the Authors' League Fund. Last night, at the home of his friend, E. S. Martin, editor of Life, he gave a reporter for the Post-Dispatch a hint of what he has discovered on his explorations into the psychic world.

"I have been trying for the past three years, with every ounce of concentration, at my command," said Churchill, "to arrive at a theory of immortality that is applicable to the conduct of life and to reconcile the paradoxes of the Bible and the teachings of the Gospels with the sciences of today. And I now believe I can do it."

"I am not trying to found a new religion, but to find a way to get rid of the old ones. I am trying to find a way to get rid of the religious conflicts that are now dividing us."

Churchill, confronting the Kansan, denied the correctness of Tinchier's information, but declared that even if it were correct, Rely ought to be investigated.

Tinchier replied that he hoped there would be an investigation and added, "I wouldn't mind a trip to Porto Rico myself."

Representative Nolan of California remarked that when Mont Rely recently returned to Porto Rico he got "a tremendous reception at the hands of the common people there." At 1 o'clock in the morning, Tinchier said he had been informed that Mont Rely represented 50 per cent of the population of Porto Rico in his clean up of the island.

"Mont Rely" he shouted, "has been charged with raising the American flag over the schools of Porto Rico."

Davila, who had stood in the front of the House near Tinchier, seeking a chance to break in had to give way to Representative Fess for the latter's prepared speech on the accomplishments of the Republican party. Later he got the floor, in the middle of his speech, and delivered a fiery exposition of Rely as an "enemy of the truth." He said that the appropriation of $3000 a year for the expenses of the resident commissioner of Porto Rico was made three and one-half years ago and had not yet been published in a letter to the editor.

That he has in public speeches denounced as traitors Porto Ricans of high character and characterized the flag of Porto Rico as "dirty."

That in public assemblies he has behaved himself in a manner unbecoming a gentleman and official.

That he has taken as his friends and counselors men of "noteworthy evil purposes."

"Man's Best Friend."

MRS. G. P. W., whose letter appeared in your column, deserves to be commended for the realization which she attained of the question of the dog that has recently been submitted to the Board of Aldermen, in connection with the use of undomestic animals in the pound. Enthusiasm in a good cause is a healthy emotion. It helps not alone the cause, but the enthusiast. It is right to be gratified that your correspondent has not informed herself on the subject which she so vigorously attacks.

What experience has Mrs. G. P. W. with the purpose and method of vivisection? Has she witnessed such an experiment? Whence her knowledge of the "practice"? How horribly gruesome and at the same time effective it is unless for its assumed purpose. If she has seen it, then she will agree that it is done along lines congenial with the surgical procedure as applied to the human patient; the anesthetic is administered in the same way the routine is exactly the same. In most cases of scientific investigation the animal is put to death while still under ether at the close of the experiment. Where recovery of the animal is imperative for the success of the experiment, it is treated with kindness and care during the stage of gastric upset that it experiences in common with most human patients. It is then painlessly put to death.

Secondly, as to the valuelessness of these experiments. Is vivisection a means to an end, or a means of certain types of misery or salvation—all of which owe their discovery to animal experimentation? Not to grateful mothers whose little ones have been saved, not to the community that has been protected by Dr. Ehrlich's discovery.

On the other hand, what constitutes the greater inhumanity—rabid, homeless, unsheltered dogs roaming the streets, endangering the lives of countless human beings, as is the case at present; or those animals safely and decently housed in proper animal quarters until they can be used for the regeneration that is often of benefit to animals as well as man?

Rewards to Get Criminals.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
T HE old saying that "There is honor among thieves," is not true. If your paper, and each of the other papers of St. Louis will each offer a reward of $200 for information that will lead to the arrest of holdup men, or men who are not now in prison but who have taken part in robberies, I believe we can clean up this part of the country, in so far as robberies are concerned, very quickly. Much bank should add a fair amount to the above. Even though the banks are insured against loss, their messengers are always in fear of death.

In connection with the newspapers, the City of St. Louis should offer a like reward, making a total of $500 for information who can help to clear away the gang. Robbers are well known to one another and with the practice of immunity and police protection you are bound to get one fellow who knows the workings of the gangsters and who will be only too glad to get out of the life if there is enough money in sight to give him an opportunity to get a new start in a distant city.

Of all the theories of breaking up the nest of devils who infest both sides of the river, doesn't this seem the most feasible? Father spend a few thousand at one time than to have great losses every few days. MRS. MILLER FIFTH.

Patriotism for Sale.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A s a volunteer in our late war and having gone through it from front to last, headed eastward on the Mexican border for over a year, of which service I am heartily ashamed—since finding out the true condition of that capitalistic owned and oppressed country, and having also been up to date, a United Republics, whose ancestors came to this country in the early days and fought in every war that has been waged by the United States, I wish to tell the world that if our political leaders are going to admit that they have lied to the American people and ex-soldiers by failing to pass the Government pension bill, the world will know that what patriotism I managed to drag out of the souls of Mexico and the men of France has been weakening rapidly under our prohibition laws and I should like to offer it for sale.

GEORGE W. HAWTHORNE.

WHERE DISGRACE RESTS.

Senator Spencer is becoming hysterical in his defense of Senator Newberry. He rages against critics of the Newberry slush fund and the Senate's action in seating Newberry. He scores Judge Kenyon for referring in his Columbia speech to Senator Newberry as "a traitor worse than Judas Iscariot." He says this statement by Judge Kenyon "insults the Senate," "dishonors the Judge who said it," "brings disgrace on the bench," "dishonors the President who appointed him," etc., etc.

Judge Kenyon was not on the bench when he made this remark. He had not taken the oath of office as a Judge. He was an appointee with, as he said, a little free time between the Senate and the bench to speak his mind.

There is a difference of opinion as to where the dishonor and disgrace rest—with Senator Kenyon and other Senators who denounced Newberry for buying a seat in the Senate and the Senate for denouncing the purchase, but seating the purchaser, with judicial appointment. Kenyon, who denounced Senator Newberry as a traitor or the majority of the Senate, who denounced the crime by which he was elected admitted his guilt, declared his excessive expenditure of money unsound policy, declared his money-hungry campaign as harmful to the honor and dignity of the Senate and "dangerous to the perpetuity of free government," yet who gave practical approval to all of these offenses by seating the offender. It was Senator Newberry who offered insult to the Senate by buying a Senate seat and by his corrupt practices injuring its honor and dignity and endangering free government. It was the Senate majority that laid the Senate open to insult by denouncing the crime of Newberry's election and voting him the purchased seat.

Senator Spencer speaks of impeaching Judge Kenyon. Why not expel Senator Reed, who said: "There is not a man who voted for this resolution (the Newberry resolution) who did not brand in red letters with a judge's pen." Did he think to Newberry Kenyon?

Senator Spencer deepens his own disgrace in whitewashing Newberry and defending his corrupt practices by praising him as "a Christian gentleman of the highest integrity and patriotism and attaching those who criticize his purchase of a senatorial seat and the Senate's action in seating him."

Senator Spencer knew Senator Kenyon's views of the Newberry job when he voted to confirm his appointment as Judge. Senator Kenyon denounced it without measure on the Senate floor. Did he think the Senate had bought Kenyon's silence and consent with a "judgeship"? Did he think to Newberry Kenyon?

The shame of the foul blot of Newberryism on the Senate's record is beginning to burn and sting those responsible for it.

CONGRESS AND THE NEEDY.

The House committee in charge of bonus legislation is tender to the plea of justice and humanity. The unemployed ex-soldier must have assistance, and calculations based on State bonus applications in an Ohio county indicate 2,000,000 jobless veterans in the nation today.

Now then does Mr. Ford's committee propose to meet this situation? Under its new plan the needy veteran may borrow 50 per cent of his bonus allowance from any bank on a Government certificate. If he fails to pay the loan in three years the Government reimburses the bank and takes over the loan.

But if the veteran is in such comfortable circumstances that he can wait for 20 years he will be rewarded with an addition of 40 per cent to his bonus plus compound interest at 4½ per cent, which would make the face value of the claim at that time 52 times its present face value.

The case was the outgrowth of a decision of the Cloth, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Association composed of over 300 firms, to introduce the piece-work system in place of work by the week provided for in an unexpired contract between the garment workers and the association. To insure its success there must be whole-hearted co-operation between the committee and citizens generally. There must be an effective campaign and action. The time is rapidly arriving when action will be imperative.

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER.

While the use of injunction in industrial controversies has given way in large measure in recent years to forms of conciliation, and while this equity process still has a similar meaning to workmen against whom it has been so generally invoked, a recent New York case exhibits the novelty of a garment workers' union procuring this remedy against their employers.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce written comments by the leading public men and women on the questions of the day.

THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A GRADUATE of Oberlin College has often written to each undergraduate who within the weeks memorizes the Sermon on the Mount. Undergraduate these days is often stuffing himself with matter infinitely less edifying and inspiring. One who in the period of training has been in contact with great examples of personal virtue has reason to give thanks in after life even the fragmentary recurrence of what he learned in college.

He would do well to analyze it now, because the Newberry case is going to be an issue in the presidential campaign of next fall. The defenders of Mr. Newberry are going to get madder and madder and express more and more contempt for the other side by Judge Kenyon—that Mr. Newberry is a worse traitor than Judas Iscariot.

Senators are going to become more rampant and even more fearless of whether the Senate is insulted or not.

The trains that arrive at Union Station must be the latest type proposed three or four years as well as on land. What?

SORRY.

W C strolled one night along a country road.

Happy. Yes, happy in the hushed young life.

Of all about us. Hushed our whispered words And hushed our voices on the grassy bank. Paint sounds of music growing full and strong As we went and heard a little birdie. Hid by a lilac bush, whose springtime song Blew with the sound. (A shrillling ecstasy.) We ceased to move, for silver-clear and high A violin was singing to the moon.

At first the song was all of day and joy, A simple, tuneful song for one stringed frame That would perish in sounding it, will cry.

I said, who is it plays like that? Surely some master. Who, in this far place?

Then changed the theme, but still the haunting phrase.

Was there. The nearer, clearer, drawing to itself.

The bear's attention. "Leave!" I could not leave.

Rooted I stood, but duly vaguely knew It would be best to go. A something there Must soon be pain. But, no, I could not move. Then, as I held my breath, the violin Lifted the little phrase and held it up.

HAMLET OF HAMPDEN DOETH WEPP TOO MUCH

But Lachrymose and Hysterical Prince Shows Beginnings of a Fine Portrayal.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

HAMLET—Shakespeare's complex and profound self-portrait assuredly a Prince of humorous sadness," but should not break his heart not only with words but with streams of tears. He is a man of woe; most likely therefore he is a self-sister. One family not, and may quarrel with Mr. Walter Hampden's impersonation of that role, revealed for the first time last night at the Shubert-Jefferson, in the respect that in and out of season it is overwrought, lachrymose and hysterical.

Was Hamlet's irresolution in his task of revenge due to mere effeminity of nerves? Partly, perhaps; but what becomes of his loftiness of character unless we perceive also that he is a civilized man in an age of barbarism? that his instincts revolt from the usual conventions of honor, regarding the conduct that at heart he cares nothing for virtue and the like? that he feels his own gentleness and shrinking from bloodshed to be nobler after all than the dangerous resolution of an aristocrat like Laertes?

Shutting Polonius by mistake as he lurked behind the arms, this Hamlet fell upon the body with an outburst of crying. He had therefore to gloss over the pitiless epitaph which immediately follows: "Thou wretched, rash, intruding fool, farewell! • • Thou shan't be to me too busy in some danger," and to omit entirely, unless memory errs, that contemptuous dismissal of the pompous courtier: "I'll lug the guts into the hollow room."

The speech to Ophelia. We know if in dolorous and tender farewell, this Hamlet sobbed to Ophelia: "Get thee to a nunnery;" and similarly had to glide over the very next words, "Why wouldst thou be a breeder of sinners?" Most of us know that this savage address to Ophelia is Hamlet's repudiation of love, tragically disenchanted as he was by his mother's lechery. Many of us believe also that Shakespeare is expressing here his own immeasurable wrath and grief at the falsehood and guilt of Mary Fitton, the "dark lady" of the Sonnets.

It is true that Hamlet, after the interview with his mother, apologizes for his impulsive arrangement in the words: "I must be cruel only to be kind." Thus his innate chivalry and compassion find their way into the most repulsive of his actions, a mother whom he abominated from a son, but it does not follow that Hamlet, as happened last night, must send the Queen away and remain alone—without justification from Shakespeare's directions—in order to indulge in a nervous breakdown for the purpose of a touching "curtain."

Last Scene Is Mutilated. Neither may one applaud the device at the end by which all the dead and dying save Hamlet are borne forth, so that he may luxuriate without rivalry in a lingering death-convulsion, heroic smiles alternating with grimaces of dissolution. This mutilation of the text eliminates the entrance of Fortinbras with him, one of the lessons of the play, that the ends of this earth are not awarded to the just and humane man, but to the resolute warrior. A similar license was taken by Hampden, with the finale of "Romeo and Juliet."

On the other hand, Hampden's Prince of Denmark had many beautiful and effective points. To begin with, his reading of the poetry had a cadence and fall, a musical timbre, which made his voice emerge like the chant of a nightingale among jackdaws; for others in the cast too often clattered out the verses like a Congressman phrasing his constituents or a person thumping the pulpit.

Hampden likewise is pictorially more than adequate to the conventional idea of Hamlet, which is that of a dark, slender and romantic figure. The play of course bears witness that Hamlet was fat and probably fat; he was meant of breath, and lamented his "too, too solid flesh." But audiences today would recoil from so unseemly a physique as that which Shakespeare had in mind, and which in all probability was his own.

Poet and Philosopher. The distinguishing excellence of Hampden's portrayal was his clear recognition and enforcement of the fact that Hamlet was only accidentally a Prince, and was authentically a poet and thinker. How his depression brightened into keenest gusto when he encountered the things which to him essentially mattered—when he could discuss technique with circling actors or set himself down with zest for a philosophical discussion with a gray dame.

One of the settings was imaginative to a degree—that of the cold, hard battlements of Elsinore, with their dim masonry, against a deep blue sky of night in which stars sparkled wittily. The audience was the first big one of the week.

BOOSTER COMMITTEE TO MEET TUESDAY TO BEGIN ITS WORK

The St. Louis Booster Committee of 200, announced yesterday at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon, will meet Tuesday afternoon in the chamber's assembly room to organize and begin the preliminary work toward outlining the items to be included in a municipal bond issue to provide St. Louis with its immediate needs in improvements.

To this committee, which has in its membership representatives of nearly all business and civic organizations of the city, will be referred all suggestions of items to be included in the proposed bond issue, and to it will fall the duty of deciding the items which will be recommended to the Board of Aldermen for submission to the voters.

Space does not permit a mention of more than two out of many most effective feats of by-play in a characterization full of detail. In the duel in the American Hamlet, when he instantly detected the treachery of his opponent and at once set to work to gain possession of the other's unbuttoned foil, in order to wrench punishment upon him.

GIRLS' COUNTRY SCHOOL MEETING TOMORROW

MISS DOROTHY ANNIE HODGSON.

Principal of Institution on Hudson Accompanies Committee on Tour of Possible Sites.

Wilson M. Atkin, principal of the Scarborough Country Day School, Scarborough-on-Hudson, N. Y., who will speak tomorrow before the committee on the proposed country day school for girls at St. Louis, today accompanied members of the committee on an inspection tour of sites for the school in St. Louis County.

Atkin's school is on the Frank A. Vanderlip estate near New York City. It is for both boys and girls and its pupils are from poor and wealthy families.

"The country day school is a glorified country school," he said. "It looks after the pupils during the entire day, watching over them during their study and play periods."

Atkin said the country day school is essential to education in large centers as it helps to eliminate crowding of schools and provides more healthful surroundings for the children than the ordinary city school affords.

He will speak on "The Aim and Methods of the Modern School" at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Missouri Athletic Association. During his stay here he is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Stix of 6476 Forsythe boulevard.

Miss Emily Isaacs of 5534 Delmar boulevard will depart immediately after Easter for Macau, Ga., where she will visit Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jimmoo, after which she will go to Louisville for the races, and finally to Indianapolis for the automobile races. She will remain away about two months.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Becker of 5534 Delmar boulevard gave a dinner and card party Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Katherine Malone of Louisville, Ky., who is the guest of Miss Emily Isaacs. Miss Malone will remain in St. Louis until Easter, and a number of informal luncheons, dinners and theaters have been planned for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson P. Hunt of Normandy and their daughter, Miss Anne Hunt, are spending a month in Palm Beach, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. G. von Brecht are guests at the Jefferson Hotel for a few days, en route to their home in Colorado Springs. Mrs. von Brecht recently visited St. Louis as the guest of Mrs. Herbert Newton Walkup of 3247 Waterman avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Russell of the Buckingham Hotel have as their guests Mrs. James A. Crutchfield and her sons, Jack and James, Crutchfield, of Bridgeport, Conn.

Many reservations have been made for the annual luncheon of the Missouri Association for Occupational Therapy next Tuesday at 12 o'clock in the ballroom of the State Hotel, which will be preceded by an occupational therapy department of a number of hospitals and institutions. Mrs. E. L. Swarts and Mrs. Albert Stix are in charge of the arrangements for the luncheon.

Announcement was made recently of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Annette Hodgson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Hodgson of 3338 Shenandoah avenue, and Dr. Henry Olen Neville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lascelles Neville of Bowline Green, Mo. The wedding will take place in June and the couple will reside in St. Louis.

Miss Ethel Cox Johnston of Ferguson will be the guest of Mrs. William B. Kinsey of 3557 Goodfellow avenue for the next week-end.

Mrs. Jerome Karst of 6904 Washington boulevard gave a dinner and bridge party Tuesday evening.

Mrs. John Starkey, who has been visiting in St. Louis for several weeks, will return Saturday to her home in Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Miss Lucy Butler of 5534 Bartner avenue will depart tomorrow for New York, where she will visit Mrs. John Graham Drew.

MARKED BILL DESTROYED AND BOTTLE SMASHED

Sam Choden, 2936 Pine Street,
Arrested as Result of Police Raid.

While seeking violators of the bone dry law yesterday afternoon, Patrolman Henry Sanders, in civilian attire, entered the grocery of Samuel Choden, 2936 Pine street, and bought a can of corn and a can of cream. Then he asked for a half pint of whisky and laid down a marked $2 bill. Choden gave him a half-pint bottle of something and 90 cents change. Sanders arrested Choden. Choden yelled something in a foreign language.

Mrs. Choden and a young man, according to the police report, bounded down the steps from the second floor and pounced on Sanders. The bottle fell from Sanders' hands, but did not break. Mrs. Choden seized it and dashed it against the floor, causing it to break and spilling its contents, while Choden and the other man fled. Sanders was trying to push the officer from the store. At another command in a foreign tongue Mrs. Choden ran to the cash register, took the marked money and is said to have torn it to bits, scattering the pieces on the floor.

Aid Comes to Sanders.

Then Choden reached under his apron, and at that moment Sergeant Stangler rushed in and arrested Sanders in completing the arrest. They found two revolvers in Choden's trouser pockets, which he said he carried to resist highwaymen. Mrs. Choden was not arrested and the other man fled.

The officers found a quart of something resembling whisky in a hall on the second floor. They also took the broken bottle and scraps of the torn bill as evidence.

Other Arrests for Violations of Prohibition Laws.

Frank Brunetti, saloon keeper at 6801 Southwest avenue, was arrested yesterday on a charge of selling whisky to two policemen in civilian clothes.

Three Italians were arrested at 1420 North Eleventh street when one of them, Joseph Valasky, sold a policeman a pint of what appeared to be whisky. A negro who had previously been seen coming from the place was arrested. He had three pint bottles of whisky which he said he had purchased there. The officers found five one-gallon jugs, nine half-pint bottles and two quart bottles of whisky in the place.

ALDERMEN WITNESS OPERATION ON DOG

Members of Welfare Committee Consider Bill to Provide Animals for Vivisection.

Members of the Public Welfare Committee of the Board of Aldermen were escorted through the Washington University Medical School and Barnes Hospital yesterday afternoon by Dr. Nathaniel Allison, dean of the Medical School, and allowed to witness an operation upon a human being and the vivisection of a dog in order to show the committee that dogs used for experimental purposes receive the same treatment accorded humans.

Dr. Allison first outlined the absolute need of dogs for vivisection purposes and said the medical profession would suffer if the bill now pending before the Board of Aldermen, seeking to turn dogs impounded by the city over to medical schools for vivisection purposes, was defeated.

Witness Operation on Dog.
The committee was then ushered into an operating room where the removal of a dog's spleen was in progress. The animal was under the influence of an anesthetic and doctors explained that it would be put to death as painlessly as impounded dogs with the exception that a different chemical would be used.

Alderman Niederluecke inquired if it would not be possible for the hospital to raise its own dogs. Dr. P. A. Shaffer, professor of biological chemistry, informed him that it would cost $10 to raise a dog to the age of 1 year and said the funds of the institution would not be expended in this manner without restricting the funds now used for more important purposes.

The aldermanic committee then proceeded to the hospital and witnessed an operation upon a 6-year-old boy for the removal of an abscess in the thigh bone. Doctors pointed out the similarity of the two operations in so far as the treatment of the subject was concerned.

How Dogs Are Used.
Physicians assert that most operations that control disease have been developed upon dogs and subsequently used, when perfected, to great benefit upon human beings. Most intestinal operations have been developed in this way.

As an illustration, they cite that when a theory that a certain method of surgical treatment will overcome some disease reaches apparent soundness, it is tried out upon a dog. The dog, after the operation, is nursed back to recovery and after a period thought sufficient to observe the effects of the operation, he is put to death with anesthetics and an autopsy performed to determine whether the results have been beneficial. If so, the operation then is perfected for the relief of human beings. Even physicians point out, seldom are used for inoculation with disease, guinea pigs and rats being most commonly used.

Alderman Niederluecke expressed himself as convinced that vivisection was not torture, and said that he believed it opened a field for valuable research.

To Explain Vivisection.
Dr. E. A. Graham, professor of surgery at Washington University, and Dr. W. J. Coughlin, professor of surgery at St. Louis University, will appear during the afternoon before the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce to explain vivisection and its value in research.

The civics committee of the Wednesday Club has adopted a resolution favoring vivisection in the interest of "science of public health." The resolution continues: "We feel that science and public health can be benefited by supplying the medical schools with sufficient animals for their experiments, that the vivisection of animals under anesthesia is more humane than the present method of killing dogs in the pound and that it is vastly better to experiment."

ment upon animals than upon people."

George E. Dieckman, secretary and superintendent of the Humane Society, said today that the Humane Society was not fighting vivisection to the society about a year ago. "We would be catching dogs for use in vivisection under this bill," Dieckman said, "and we are unwilling to act in that capacity."

Dieckman, in response to a question, said the society had caused the national organization for opposition to vivisection to send to the Aldermen and to citizens the literature commonly used in antivivisection campaigns. Surgeons declare this literature is a perversion of the truth of the treatment of dogs in medical schools.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE AGAINST MAYOR

Sulphur (Ok.) Official and Bank Cashier Who Ended Life Accused.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SULPHUR, Ok., March 8.—A charge of embezzlement against Mayor W. H. (Pat) Riley is the latest development in the collapse of the Bank of Commerce of this city, the county's biggest banking institution.

Several months ago the Bank of Commerce, with heavy loans among farmers, had its first shock when the cotton market slumped and the crop trade became general, but the instant rallying of friends and customers saved the institution by putting enough cash in the vaults to tide it over. The bank was closed for a week and the State Bank Examiner given sufficient time to make a thorough investigation of the books and banking methods employed. He reported the institution in good condition. However, the bank again failed to open on Feb. 23 and was voluntarily placed again in the hands of the banking commission and has since remained closed.

As yet no statement has been made by the commissioners.

Embezzlement Charged.

An investigation by City Auditor John Rogers, together with a citizens' advisory committee, has been in progress for several days. They found the city was bankrupt, and that all bonds and securities had disappeared and the financial secretary of the city responsible. The auditors of the situation learned over all evidence and records in his possession, at the same time charging the cashier of the defunct bank, Charles A. Bryan, and the Mayor with embezzlement of city securities to the amount of $10,000. It is charged that these city securities were taken to Oklahoma City as collateral for money said to have been loaned to the Sulphur Bank.

Upon learning of the indictment, and before the warrant for his arrest could be served, Bryan went to his home and in his barn shot himself through the right temple with an automatic pistol. The shooting is said to have occurred at about 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and the banker died in the Williamson Sanitarium after three hours.

Bryan was a native of Missouri and at the age of 21 was elected sheriff of his county. He was 40 years old and the father of two daughters. The body was sent yesterday to his old home at Platteburg, Mo.

Statement by Mayor.

Mayor Riley made bond in the sum of $10,000 yesterday and issued a statement saying:

"There is positively no ground for any believing that there was any connivance upon my part or of the late Charles A. Bryan in the disposing of city funds. The mere fact of an accusation does not make it so. The ugly and unfounded rumors that are abroad in connection therewith are but a part of a well-organized campaign to the part of certain financial interests in this city which has at last achieved the results sought by these parties in the failure of the Bank of Commerce and the ending of the life of Charles A. Bryan. These parties continue their campaign along these lines, seeking to destroy me."

"Upon two different occasions the late Charles A. Bryan was approached by the emissaries of these parties who accuse him of having misappropriated the funds of the city and told him that if he (Bryan) would force the resignation of 'Pat' Riley as Mayor the alleged criminal charges would be dropped and forgotten, but that unless he did bring sufficient pressure upon me to force my resignation, criminal charges would be filed against both of us." Riley's preliminary hearing is set for March 9.

BOLTMAN CHARGES DISMISSED

Defendant in Auto Case Did Not Know Machine Was Stolen.

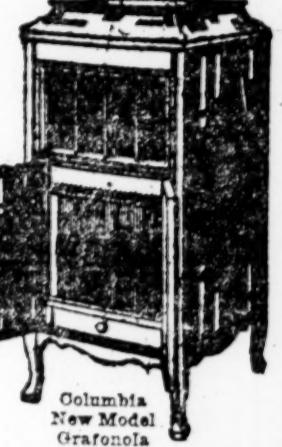

The case against Louis Boltzman, 512 Locust St., charged with second-degree burglary, larceny, and receiving stolen property in connection with the theft of an automobile, owned by Thomas Wirth of 1427 Angelica street, from a garage at 5110 North Tenth street, on May 21 last, was dismissed yesterday.

Circuit Judge Killoran sustained a demurrer that the State had failed to show Boltzman knew the car was stolen when he bought it from Joseph Cohen of East St. Louis.

IS YOUR CHILD SICK AND AILING?

Give It Gude's Pepto-Mangan—For Thirty Years Doctors' Favorite Tonic

Children that grow too fast and play too hard or perhaps work too hard at school (oh, yes, some children do work hard at school) become pale and a little run down, and then mother and fathers become worried about them. The youngsters do not eat with their usual big appetites, and as they become thin and pale, one easily thinks of an ailment and good remedy for this. It is Gude's Pepto-Mangan, the tonic rich in a certain form of iron that is readily absorbed by the system. Gude's Pepto-Mangan will soon put the color back into the children's cheeks and give them the kind of an appetite every mother loves to see. It is sold by druggists in two forms—liquid and tablet—and is absolutely safe to give to any child. Ask your home doctor what he thinks about Gude's Pepto-Mangan.

ATLANTA, Ga.—The real turning point upward in retail and wholesale trade throughout the Southwest is expected this month. Retail trade showed a decline in the early part of the year as compared with 1921. But this was expected. Wholesale business decreased less than 2 per cent in money value in the early period. Wholesalers and jobbers now report better inquiry and sales are expected to increase steadily from now on.

The local banks have reduced their loans materially and plenty of money is to be had for legitimate business enterprises. February proved a banner month in Atlanta in building construction, property taxes up $41 million assessed. This was shown in advance of the record for January and combined, the figures for the two months were the largest ever recorded here.

The cooperative plan for marketing cotton is making headway in this state. An average of 2000 bales a day has been signed up in the last week. Holders are looking for better prices and there is little tendency to dispose of cotton except to pay pressing obligations. Return of the price to the 20-cent level probably would soften the spot cotton situation.

DETROIT BANKERS SATISFIED.
DETROIT, Mich.—With February, always a crucial month, safely past, bankers here are satisfied the upturn in business will continue steadily throughout the year. The demand for money still is strong, but the supply is becoming gradually more abundant and rates are going down. Building of stores and business edifices which provided employment here all winter, is giving way to home construction. This is stimulating the demand for lumber and the yards here are buying finishing woods in fair volume, although the cheaper grades are chosen.

Many manufacturing lines outside the automobile and accessory trade are making up for lost time. The Detroit Solyer Chemical plant is operating at maximum and the same true of the Michigan Alkal Co. in the paint, varnish and paper mills. Paris Davis & Co., manufacturers of drugs and chemicals, are doing a record business and increased demand is in evidence among the garment manufacturers.

Production at the automobile plants shows no signs of abatement. In fact the volume of new orders has surprised even the most enthusiastic of the automobile boosters. If the present volume of business is maintained, Detroit's output of manufactured products will exceed the total of 1921 by 33 1/3 per cent in tonnage and at least equal the record of last year in dollar value.

Building permits taken out here during the last week carried cost estimates aggregating $988,142, compared with $967,412 for the previous week and $957,625 for the similar week of last year. Practically 85 per cent of the work is in residence construction.

ROAD LINKING PLANNED.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The road work planned in this State for the year will result in construction and piecing together of trunk lines which will give the State 2,000 miles of first-class roads.

PRICE QUESTION BOTHERS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Neither manufacturers nor retail merchants here are worrying over the ability of the public to pay for goods required for fall, but the question of price is uppermost in their minds, especially as quantities of foreign-made goods are coming into the market.

PAINT.

CLEVELAND, O.—The local paint plant of the Gilman company is operating with a full force and with two-thirds of the employees working overtime, the Sherman-Williams and Benjamin Moore Paint Co. report an increase of business.

PHILADELPHIA.—The largest department store here asserts that its annual furniture sale just concluded was the most successful in the history of the store.

FISH.

NEW YORK.—Advices from Vancouver indicate that British Columbia canners are anticipating somewhat lower costs for their 1922 pack of salmon. They are getting their fish from England at prices said to be 20 per cent under those paid American packers last year.

TELLS WHAT REDUCTION IN SCHOOL TAX MEANS

Superintendent Maddox Shows
How Cut in 85-Cent Rate
Would Affect Education.

Superintendent of Instruction Maddox today told representatives of the various women's organizations meeting in the Century Building with the Public School Committee of the League of Women Voters, that unless the present school tax rate of 85 cents is again voted at the special election, March 28, the Board of Education would be compelled to reduce teachers' pay, eliminate night schools, close continuation classes and drop all plans for new school buildings.

If the present tax rate is maintained, he said, "the Board of Education is confident it can continue the necessary expansion of St. Louis schools without calling on the people to vote bonds for new buildings. We believe we can build a few new schools each year as well as expand our night school and continuation classes with the funds received under the 85-cent tax. If the tax rate is not voted again and we revert to the old rate of 60 cents on the $100 valuation, then we shall have to begin a severe policy of retrenchment."

"We do not wish to cut teachers' pay unless we are compelled to do so. Not only will it decrease activities of the schools here."

Equal Treatment for All.

Supt. Maddox said the board plans to treat negro and white children equally in providing facilities for educating them. He pointed out that negro children now are compelled to attend classes in portable schools, rented buildings, converted into schools and remodeled residences, all inconveniently located. He said there has been an increased attendance of 5000 in the negro schools in the past 10 years.

Maddox pointed out that there has been an increased attendance in the high schools and that last autumn more than 200 additional pupils entered high schools here. This number was enough to fill a new high school. He added that no high schools have been built here since 1915 to accommodate increased attendance.

If the present tax rate is maintained the board plans to extend its Americanization work. Forty-one Americanization classes are now being conducted.

Representatives of the women's organizations unanimously endorsed the continuation of the present rate. Among the organizations represented were the Women's Chamber of Commerce, Jewish Council of Women, Wednesday Club, Women's Republican Club, Women's Democratic Club and the League of Women Voters.

The League of Women Voters, in conjunction with the other women's organizations, will open booths in downtown department stores three days before the election and representatives will explain the need of continuing the present rate. The Speakers' Bureau of the league will send speakers to any organization requesting them to talk on the need of the tax.

PROTECTED CRUISER ST. LOUIS PLACED OUT OF COMMISSION

Vessel Until Recently Flagship of U.S. Naval Forces in Turkish Waters—Convey During War.

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—The protected cruiser St. Louis, until recently flagship of the American naval forces in Turkish waters, was placed out of commission today at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Built here and launched in 1915, the St. Louis was used extensively in convey work during the World War. She made eight trips to Europe with troops and after the armistice she brought home six loads of returning soldiers.

The first suit against Mrs. Harris was by H. C. Shaw, of Hot Springs, Ark., who alleged she owed him $100. In this case her savings in her room at Hotel Statler were attached and were under guard of a watchman several days. The attachment later was withdrawn, though the suit is pending. Shaw afterward filed a suit for $15,000 for alleged slander, but dismissed the action a few days after filing it.

Bertrand & Co. of this city. An involuntary bankruptcy proceeding against C. A. Bertrand & Co. was filed in Federal Court.

The members of the Kendrick firm are George W. Kendrick III and Clarence H. Clark III.

Having Once Learned the Tailor's Trade, Ruth Will Doubtless Patch Up His Salary Differences

Wills Stops Kid Norfolk With Six-Inch Jolt to the Jaw in the Second Round

Negro Giant Outclasses Dusky Light-heavyweight and Wins Right to Meet Jack Dempsey for the Title—Champion Fails to Reach Arena in Time to View Contest.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 3.—Harry Wills knocked out Kid Norfolk, the Negro light-heavyweight champion, in the second round of their bout for a chance at Jack Dempsey, in Madison Square Garden last night. The end came suddenly. Wills had all the better of his smaller opponent in the first round, but Norfolk went up for the second, jaunty and smiling.

They exchanged light blows to the head and Wills landed one to the body as they fell into a clinch. Then just as the referee stepped forward to pass between them, Norfolk fell to pass between them. Norfolk over on his back with mouth open and gasping and eyes bulging, shot what the referee said was a short right to the chin delivered with a smile.

Wills saw the blow start and fewer saw it land, so main left the bigamist growling and disgusted with what they called a "gift" for Wills.

Norfolk was not out, as he lay blinking and staring up at the referee who stood over him counting. When the count reached eight he rolled over and crawled to his knees and staggered to his feet as the referee said "ten and out." He did not seem to understand that the bout was over and he had won. He tried to pass past the referee to renew the battle against his dusky opponent, who sat quietly in his corner drawing a long breath.

Finally, however, the fans were impressed on his stay acting brave and he was led to the ring again and to his dressing room. Norfolk could not give away 11 pounds in weight, seven inches in height and seven inches in reach.

He ended a most unsatisfactory bout. Nobody learned anything about Wills not already known, except that he was in fine condition and packed a powerful short right.

Dempsey Missed the Bout.

Jack Dempsey did not arrive in time to see the short struggle and he missed nothing. He could learn more about Wills, who wants a shot at his heavyweight title, by watching him skip the ropes.

After the pictures had been taken and introductions made, the two negroes faced each other for the first round, Wills weighing 211 pounds and Norfolk 176. The difference was apparent.

Wills landed first, a swinging right to the body, but without inflicting damage. Norfolk did not mind and out, from his left, hit and landed a right to the nose. Wills came back and struck him to the ropes with a shower of blows and then sent his opponent staggering around the ring with a smashing right.

Norfolk bobbed back with a broad grin, as if saying, "Is that all you got?" and a moment later fell flat on the floor from his own unbalance effort in trying to get away from which he was ducked. Another wild exchange followed and then, Wills again sent Norfolk back on his heels from a stinging left and a sharp right.

Norfolk did not land one effective blow and actually landed a few himself. After the short rest, he started up again in the round and the quick end. When Norfolk suddenly fell over on his back from that short fight which the referee said did not last more than six inches, it was the last contact with a resounding crash. Norfolk had struck and gone as he walked to his corner. The skin was gone.

Mike Burke and Jack Reeves boxed a eight-round draw in the opening bout.

Paul Sampson of this city gave a set of points to the huge lumberjack Farmer Lodge of St. Paul in the rounds preliminary. The former weighed 176 pounds, the latter 196. Sampson was stopped in the fifth round from a dislocated jaw. He was pulled off by the Chickasaw franchise to Japan and adoption of a schedule is on the program of business.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—A call for a meeting of club owners of the Western Association here Sunday was issued by E. A. McNeil, president of the association. No date or place was given.

Willie Mike of St. Paul knocked out Al Gherardi of Staten Island in the second round of the semi-final bout.

VON DACH AND WIRTZ TO OFFICIATE TOMORROW IN HIGH SCHOOL FINAL.

The play-off game between the Cleveland and Central High schools for the championship of the Inter-scholastic League in basketball and the honor of possessing the Michigan trophy will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Auditorium. The Central High School team has the advantage. This allows the contestants an equal advantage in that they are both forced to use a team with which they are not familiar.

Neutral officials have recently agreed to come from the city of both Heber and Napoli, the official league writers. Von Dach and Wirtz, who have been handling many of the Municipal League games, will supervise play.

Since the rules of the Inter-scholastic League stated that admission tickets would be sold at the door only, tickets held over from the regular season being of no value. New Jersey Governor Says He'll Not Oppose A Dempsey-Wills Bout

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Gov. Edward A. Murphy of New Jersey declared last night that he would permit a bout between the world's greatest and Harry Wills for the heavyweight championship of the world in New Jersey, providing there was a public demand for the match.

The Governor attended the show at the Hippodrome last night where he had Dempsey and Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, as guests in his box after Dempsey's turn on the stage.

"What have we got the big arena in Jersey City for except to use it?" There seems to be a sentiment in favor of this bout and I regard it as proper contest to have the greatest white heavyweight boxer in the world meet the greatest black heavyweight."

A reporter for the Post-Dispatch apprised Dempsey of the Governor's stand. "I think the Governor is right," he said. "I am not going to use the arena unless I am sure the public is willing to meet Wills. Dempsey replied.

"Certainly. Boxing is my business and I will box any man of any color that the public is interested in seeing box."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Whitefoot Finds a Home at Last

By Thornton W. Burgess

*True independence he has known
Whose home has been his very own.*

—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

CURLED up in his splendid warm bed in a dead tree in the Green Forest, Timmy the Flying Squirrel slept peacefully. He didn't know that he had a visitor. He didn't know that on top of that same bed lay Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. Whitefoot wasn't asleep. No, indeed! Whitefoot was too worried to sleep. He knew he couldn't stay in that fine house because it belonged to Timmy. He knew that as soon as Timmy awoke he, Whitefoot, would have to get out. Where should he go? He wished he knew. How he did long for his old home he had left! But when he thought of that he remembered Shadow the Weasel. It was better to be homeless than to feel that at any minute Shadow the Weasel might appear.

It was getting late in the afternoon. Before long jolly, round, red Mr. Sun would go to bed behind the Purple Hills and the Black Shadows would come creeping through the Green Forest. Then Timmy the Flying Squirrel would awake.

"It won't do for me to be here then," said Whitefoot to himself. "I must find some other place before then. If only I knew this part of the Green Forest I might know where to go. As it is I shall have to go hunt for a new home and trust to luck. Did ever a poor little Mouse have so much trouble?"

After a while Whitefoot felt rested and peeped out of the doorway. No enemy was to be seen anywhere. Whitefoot crept out and climbed a little higher in the tree. Presently he found another hole. He peeped inside and listened long and carefully. He didn't intend to make the mistake of going into another house where someone might be living.

Sure at last that there was no one in there he crept in. Then he made a discovery. There were beechnuts in there! And there were seeds! It was a storehouse. Whitefoot knew at once that it must be Timmy's storeroom.

Rough away he realized how very, very hungry he was. Of course, he had no right to any of those seeds or nuts. Certainly not!

That is, he wouldn't have had any right had he been a boy or girl. But it is the law of the Green Forest that whatever any one finds he may help himself to it if he can.

So Whitefoot began to fill his empty little stomach with some of those seeds. He ate and ate and ate and quite forgot all his troubles. Just as he felt that he hadn't room for another seed he heard the sound of claws outside on the trunk of the tree. In a flash he knew that Timmy the Flying Squirrel was awake and that it wouldn't do to be found in there by him. In a jiffy Whitefoot was outside. He was just in time; Timmy was almost up to the entrance of that storeroom.

"Hi, there!" cried Timmy. "What were you doing in my storeroom?"

"I—I was looking for a new home," stammered Whitefoot.

"You mean you were stealing some of my food," snapped Timmy suspiciously.

"I—I did take a few seeds because I was almost starved. But truly, I was looking for a new home," repeated Whitefoot.

"What was the matter with your old home?" demanded Timmy.

Then Whitefoot told Timmy all about how he had been obliged to leave his old home because of Shadow the Weasel, of the terrible journey he had, and how he didn't know where to go or what to do. Timmy listened suspiciously at first, but

DIFFERENT VIEWPOINTS

"Isn't that a clever bit of painting, son?"
"I'll say it is, Dad."

soon made up his mind that Whitefoot was telling the truth. The mere mention of Shadow the Weasel made him very sober.

He scratched his nose thoughtfully. "Over in that tall, dead stump you can see from here is an old home of mine," said he. "No one lives in it now. I guess you can live there until you can find a better home. But remember to keep away from my storeroom."

So it was that Whitefoot found a new home.

The Heart of a Girl

A Story of Romance and a Business Career in St. Louis

By Caroline Crawford

CHAPTER 77.

Jack Reed Glories in the Good News

JUST as Peggy expected, Jack

Jreed slipped in to see how she was getting along at the noon hour. He had formed this little trick of rushing out to see her during his luncheon period in order to avoid meeting Billy Bracton in the evening.

"It isn't that I detest the old topsoil much," Jack explained to Peggy, "but I hate to be here when there is another chap hanging around. Two is company and three's a crowd all right. I'd rather dash out and see you for 20 minutes than to spend the whole evening here with that little pal of yours."

"Well, you don't need to do any more dashing or rushing at noon time," announced Peggy. "Billy Bracton has been transferred to Chicago. Just at this very minute he is boarding a train. And he is to stay there a whole year."

"Great guns!" gasped Jack with as much dignity and solemnity as if she had announced Billy's death.

Then brightening up with renewed energy and optimism, he slapped himself upon the knee and laughed, "WELL, if that isn't JUST my luck. My word, Peggy, now we are left all alone. Townley's gone to Europe and Bracton to Chicago—a good place for him, too, I'll say. I hope he stays there all his life."

"You are horrid to say that, although I might have known you would wish Chicago on poor Billy."

"Oh, don't look so sad, hell write you oodles of lovey-dovey letters."

"Billy is a sensible chap, Jack Reed; when he writes his letters will be just the sort of letters he would write to a boy."

"I'll be willing to take a wager with you that they won't. If you can produce a letter from Billy Bracton that is sensible and absolutely devoid of love or sentiment I'll stand on my head."

"I hope you don't think I'm going to put Billy's letters on exhibition. Besides, I know what I'm talking about, for I have received letters from Billy before."

"Well, my word, Peggy Dayton, you don't think we're going to waste the few minutes I have to spend here talking about Billy and the type of letters he writes to young women do you? Look here, Miss Peggy, if all your suitors have fled the town let's rejoice and be exceedingly glad. Your sprained ankle will be well in a few days and we'll go to shows, hunt up a lot of excursions about St. Louis and just paint the old town red. What did the doctor say you could return to business?"

"In fact, these days I have been away 10 days and my leave of absence is up," replied Peggy as she added quickly, "but I can't promise to do much running around, Jack, for I have been thinking of taking a business course evenings."

"You may have been thinking," laughed Jack, "but I notice you don't add 'seriously' thinking. You are just saying that to put me off."

"Well, I think I will take a business course, one of those nights a week arrangements," invited Peggy.

"Did you say 'seriously' thinking?" They laughed and Jack held up a warning finger to Peggy.

"Don't lose your beauty sleep learning to be an expert typist or crackerjack business woman, Peggy. You'll never need your experience. You are a nice girl. Some girls are, you know, just as others are cut out to be 'old maid's,' not even bachelors. Girls. You'll marry within the next two years and if you are ever left a widow, goodnight, Peggy, you are the type who will marry within the next year."

Jack grabbed up his hat and prepared to make his exit as hasty as his arrival. At the door he paused.

"Will you be home tomorrow evening?" he asked.

"I may be at business school."

"I'll take a chance."

Do you want BETTER COFFEE?

A potato is only a potato. But let a clever housewife prepare it with her magic fingers—let her add a bit of cheese, or cover it with the golden brown of the roast in the oven and presto—the potato that was only a potato becomes a delicacy that brings a good glad smile to the face of any husband.

~ and so with Coffee

How much more fragrant and tasty it is if you use just a little care in making it! Hard? Difficult? Troublesome? Not a bit of it. Just follow these six easy rules and note the difference in the taste of your next cup of Coffee.

Six Rules for Making Good Coffee

KEEP YOUR COFFEE AIR-TIGHT—Leave strength and aroma unexposed to air. Keep it in an airtight container.

MEASURE CAREFULLY—Experiment until you find just the proportions of Coffee and water that suits you. That stick to them. Guessing usually means a poor cup of Coffee.

USE GROUNDS ONLY ONCE—Don't leave the coffee grounds in the pot for the second and third cups. They are of no more value in making good coffee than ashes in building a fire.

USE BOILING WATER—Boil your water, but don't boil your coffee. Don't let the water and ground beans boil together after they are mixed.

SERVE AT ONCE—Many a pot of perfect coffee has been ruined later by letting it cool. If you must wait, keep the coffee piping hot, but never let it boil. Re-boiling injures the flavor.

SCOUR THE COFFEE POT—This is a rough job, but it must be done. Turn the pot, brush it, scrub it, set it away to dry. Scour it even more carefully than other cooking utensils.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

(One of a series of short funny stories by the celebrated American humorist which appear daily in the Post-Dispatch on this page.)

TOTAL LOSS

FOR the first time in the history of the State, an electrocution took place within the walls of the State prison. The Legislature had ordered the installation of an electric chair to take the honored place of the old-fashioned slipnoose under the left ear of the fathers of the commonwealth.

A negro "trustie" was an unwilling witness to the first performance under the new arrangement. The Warden had detailed him as helper to the paid executioner. He issued forth from the lethal chamber with popped eyes and ashen face.

A group of his fellow convicts knotted about him, anxious to hear the grisly details. He proceeded to elucidate.

"Well, suz," he said, with a shiver, "they take an' strips you down, hand an' foot, in a big cheer. An den they clamp some lil' things onto your bald an' yo' lags. An den one of de white men he step over to whar they're a little nigger set in de wall an' he give it a lit' yank—izz—lak dat!"

Here he paused and fetched a deep breath.

"What den? What den?" came the chorus.

"'Nothin' but ruin—jes' absolute ruin!"

THE FAINT HEART
Half a dozen blackbirds
In de apple tree.
Jew enough to make
A pie fo' me.
Go an' git de mukker.
Off de pantry hook.
Fix de fat an' fleshy.
Ready fo' to cook.

Ambie thow de orchard.
Stinkin' near de ground.
Blackbird he ain't stay dere.
Ef I makes a sound.
Gittin' right in higher.
Quiet as er ghost.

Ef I comes right close.

Musket to mah shoulder.
Pointin' toward de sky.
Golly goodness gracious!

Blackbirds cock dey halds up.
Lookin' mighty cute.

Feelin' sort of beat.

All I got to eat.
